

THIRTY ONE KILLED
IN LOGAN WRECK

HARVEST OF DEATH FROM SATURDAY'S CRASH.

Engineer of One of the Colliding Trains Blamed For the Disaster—He Forgot His Orders—Five Killed And Many Injured in a Railroad Wreck at Chicago.

Omaha, Neb., July 13.—Sunday was a day of mourning in Omaha. The harvest of death from the Logan (Iowa) wreck has been increased and the list of victims numbers thirty-one. The roll of dead belonging in Omaha numbers eighteen, the complete list being as follows:

JOHN M'DERMOTT, machinist at the Union Pacific shops.

JOHN KINSEY.

ROBERT CLAIR, son of John Clair, ex-assistant boiler inspector.

JOHN H. JACK.

JOHN LARSEN, aged 16.

FREDERICK T. NEILSON.

JOHN B. KILKER.

OWEN KAVANAUGH, aged 18.

HUGH DODSON, aged 12.

MRS. KATE BRADLEY.

HER BABY.

MRS. P. J. CARROLL.

HER SON, aged 6.

PATRICK SCULLY.

MISS MARY TRACY.

JOHN COSGROVE, aged 19.

WILLIAM COSGROVE, aged 14.

MARGARET COSGROVE, aged 24.

In addition to these the following residents of other towns were killed, increasing the list to twenty-five, but there are still three or four not accounted for. Two of the doctors who went to the scene from Omaha stated that they counted the dead bodies, one placing the number at twenty-eight and the other at twenty-nine. The list so far as has been obtained is as follows:

CHARLES HEIMAN, Missouri Valley.

WALTER JENNINGS, Missouri Valley.

GEORGE WININGER, Morrison, Ill. LAWRENCE PETERO, Council Bluffs.

MISS OLLIE WILSON, Council Bluffs.

MRS. TAYLOR and her baby, Council Bluffs.

Of the more seriously injured some will die; some will hold their beds for weeks and months; some are, in comparison, but slightly injured. The wounds range from surface cuts to internal injuries, which must result in death. The victims are:

ROBERT BUCHTEL, left leg fractured.

MRS. ROBERT BUCHTEL, severe contusions on the face and forehead; her nose is broken and one arm badly injured.

KATE COSGROVE, contusion over the right eye and generally badly bruised.

WILLIAM J. SUMMIT, Missouri Valley, fracture of a leg and generally bruised.

MRS. SCULLY, of Sheeley, fractures of several ribs and injured in the chest, she is not expected to live.

SAM DUTSON, arm broken and left badly cut.

BLANCHE H. ENDER, Clifton Hill, seriously injured; right arm fractured in two places and both her clavicle bones broken.

ALBERT HEARSON, knee badly lacerated.

J. F. KALER, Council Bluffs, badly cut about the head and face.

MARGARET COLVEN, badly bruised.

ANNIE COLVEN, shoulders bruised and severely cut.

OLIVER COLVEN, severe cuts about the head.

JOHN SCHNEIDER, injured in the sides, arms, and head.

EVA NEILSON, badly injured internally and in addition her right leg is badly hurt; condition serious.

LEONARD MACK, injured in the abdomen and groin; received a number of wounds in the head and had his right leg hurt; condition critical.

*ANDREW NEILSON, arm broken, both sides injured, and received a number of cuts in the face.

HENRY C. CONRAD, of Dayton, Iowa, injured about the right hip.

C. W. JOHNSON, contusions upon both legs.

WILLIAM CHRISTENSEN, sustained contusions on the right thigh and left leg.

P. J. CARROLL, injured in the chest and head and is suffering from an injured hand.

JEROME A. LITTLE, ribs fractured sides receiving contusions upon the face and chest. It is feared his injuries are fatal.

FRED KINSEY, sustained an injury in the right arm and contusions upon his face.

MRS. O'HEARN, of Council Bluffs, severely cut about the face; right arm and shoulder also injured.

THERESA TRACEY, severe cuts upon the head.

MAGGIE SCULLIN, contusions upon the left shoulder and arm.

JOHN PERKINS, badly cut about the face and received an injury to his right leg.

MIKE SHANNON, 14 years old; injuries are serious.

A 3-YEAR-OLD CHILD belonging to the Kaler family of Council Bluffs was badly injured.

JOHN M'KENNA, injured internally; sprained ankle and generally bruised.

JOHN MEANEY, cut about face.

According to a story in circulation in Council Bluffs among railroad men, the accident was due to the carelessness of the engineer of the excursion train in overlooking the fact that he was running on special train orders, and in paying no heed to the existence of freight train No. 38, leaving Council Bluffs on the same track. Excursion trains are operated as specials, and must make way for regulars.

Another story which appears to have some foundation is that the fast freight train, No. 38, in charge of Engineer Montgomery, left the Northwestern depot a few minutes behind time, and upon reaching Missouri Valley was still behind time. This train, it is claimed, left Missouri Valley without receiving orders to do so. Engineer Montgomery, when he saw that it was impossible for him to stop his train and avert a collision, jumped from his engine, sustaining a fracture of the left arm below the elbow. He was taken to Council Bluffs and, after having his arm dressed, returned to the scene of the wreck to aid in relieving the suffering and distressed passengers, but was too excited to be of service.

Daniel Angel of North Twenty-Fourth street was the first person to behold the horrible scene of death and destruction inside the car. He said that little time was lost by the passengers in affording such relief as the circumstances afforded until the surgeons arrived. The people of Logan did everything that could be done for the comfort and relief of the injured excursionists. Houses were turned into hospitals and every available pillow, blanket, and quilt in the town was turned over to the sufferers.

KILLED IN A WRECK.

Fatal Collision on the Chicago and Northern Pacific Road.

Chicago, July 13.—An excursion train from the Ancient Order of United Workmen's picnic at Schiller Park ran into an open switch in front of the depot at Altenheim last evening and was wrecked. Five passengers were killed and several were injured. The dead:

MISS MARY ARNOLD.
MISS LENA HUBERT.

FRANK KOCH.
MAN SUPPOSED TO BE FRED KIRTELL.

MAN SUPPOSED TO BE CHARLES SAMUEL.

The injured:

Patrick Collins, 32 years old, compound fracture of leg and arm, taken to the county hospital; will recover.

Edwin Kelly, 33 years old, left leg lacerated; taken to the county hospital; not serious.

Miss Bessie Smith, right leg bruised severely.

Hugh O'Neil, bruised about body.

Henry McDonald, 41 years old, injured about the head; taken to Presbyterian hospital; not serious.

Mrs. Eleanor Fagin, 36 years old; internally injured; taken to her home.

Nine-year-old child of Mrs. Eleanor McDonald, injured about the hip; taken home; serious.

Eleven-year-old child of Mrs. Fagin, slightly bruised; taken home.

Many others were taken to their homes by friends.

The train was made up of twelve passenger coaches and one baggage car, attached to engine No. 104. James Gradin was the engineer of the train, W. Dayton the fireman, and John Hidder, conductor.

Every coach was crowded almost to suffocation, and the platform of the cars were also filled by the excursionists. After leaving Schiller Park Gradin threw the throttle of his engine wide open and the train thundered along at a high rate of speed.

Just before reaching Altenheim, which is eight miles from Schiller Park, Gradin slackened the speed of the train, he says, preparatory to stopping at cemetery crossing, a few hundred feet east of Altenheim station. In front of the depot at Altenheim and standing on a switch were two empty excursion trains, with the engines attached. They had been hauled there to allow the Schiller Park train to pass. The switch leading from the main to the side track had been carelessly left open, it is claimed by Station Agent P. J. Horan of Altenheim. The Schiller Park train dashed down the main track, and when it reached the "thrown" switch the engine turned toward the two excursion trains, which were not fifty feet away from the switch. Engineer Gradin perceived what would inevitably follow as soon as his locomotive struck the switch. He reversed the power and threw on the air brake, but this had very little effect in checking the speed of the heavy-laden train, which slid swiftly along the track, and in a very few seconds was almost upon the first of the two empty excursion trains. The rear of this train was turned toward the advancing engine.

Gradin still hoped he might be able to slacken the speed of his train before the expected crash came, and he stuck to the engine with Fireman Doyle at his side.

During this time those on the fated excursion train were singing and laughing, entirely ignorant of their danger. Not more than ten minutes after Gradin's engine had struck the side track it dashed with terrific force into the rear car of the empty excursion train. The pilot of the engine was twisted and torn as though it had been so much wire, and the forward part of the locomotive was buried in the empty excursion coach. The weight of those on the Schiller Park train added to the terrific force of the collision and drove the first coach completely into the baggage car. Those who were killed or injured were standing on the platforms.

SPANISH IN A PANIC
OVER YELLOW JACKARMY IN CUBA OVERWHELMED
BY FEVER.

Epidemic Proves More Fatal Than the Machetes of the Cuban Patriots—Mortality From 40 to 60 Per Cent—Hospitals Filled Up and Sick Soldiers Can Hardly Get Shelter.

Key West, Fla., July 13.—Advices from Havana state that a panic prevails in the Spanish army in consequence of the terrible increase of yellow fever in the last few days. It is estimated that fully 40 per cent of the cases prove fatal. In Santiago de Cuba there are 4,500 soldiers in the hospitals.

Major General Linares is stricken and his life is despaired of. The physicians and nurses are utterly incapable of coping with the disease. The epidemic is also serious all along the trocha. In some cases entire companies have been stricken. General Areias and nearly every member of his staff are ill. Captain General Weyler has ordered the erection of new hospitals along the trocha, and will send to Spain for additional physicians.

In Baracoa, Holgan, and other places in Eastern Cuba the fever is raging with great virulence, and it is spreading to the central points. From Mantanzas come most distressing tales. In that city, it is said, the mortality is about 60 per cent, and it is becoming difficult to bury the dead. The hospitals of Havana contain nearly 6,000 patients, and every day the number is being increased. Friday 450 sick soldiers were taken into Havana from Pinar del Rio province.

NOT ALL POPULISTS FOR BRYAN
He Will Be Indorsed Only After a Hot Fight

St. Louis, Mo., July 13.—The impression seems to be strong among local populists that if the democratic ticket made at Chicago is indorsed by the populist national convention, to be held here July 22, it will only be after a hard fight.

"Teller is still our man," said a wellknown populist and silver party man, "and watch what I tell you, we will nominate him. We figure it is best for the silver cause to nominate Teller. He can carry the silver republican states, and can secure more electoral votes than Bryan. Bryan will carry the silver democratic states, and between Teller and Bryan we count on securing enough electoral votes to prevent McKinley's election. If this can be done, the electoral votes for silver will hold together, and will select Teller or Bryan for president. This is the latest plan of the populists."

TWO ABLE SERMONS
BY REV. DR. HODGE

IMPORTANCE OF CHURCH MEMBERSHIP DISCUSSED.

Better Work Can Be Done by An Organized Army Than By a Body of Men Without a Method—Prayer For the Christian Endeavor Convention.

Rev. Dr. Hodge was able to speak at both the morning and the evening service in the Baptist church, Sunday. His text in the morning was John 10:27. "My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me." He showed how Christ's followers hear Him—calling, guiding and consoling them; how Christ knows His followers at all times, in adversity as well as prosperity; how they follow Him and shall be with Him in the final home. In closing, the pastor presented the thought that without divine working, human working is vain; that without human work, the divine work comes to naught.

"Why I am a Church Member" was the subject of the evening discussion. Among the arguments presented were the greater efficiency of a Christian as a church member, than as an individual, more being accomplished by an organized army than by an unorganized body of soldiers. The church could do much work that the individual could not. Christ was represented in the revelation as walking up and down among the golden candlesticks typical of the churches. Much help could be received from contact with other Christians and the church needed the help of every follower of Christ.

The Ladies Aid society will meet in the church parlors Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Enthusiasm in Christian service was the topic of the Endeavor meeting, with the especial thoughts of prayer for the Christian Endeavor convention at Washington. It is expected that about twenty-five from this city will be in attendance at the Baptist Young People's Union convention in Milwaukee this week. Special cars will be provided by the C. M. & St. Paul road, leaving Janesville at 10:05 Tuesday morning.

MANY PEOPLE UNDER THE
Up-River Parks Were Sought By HES Sunday Afternoon.

The hot weather of yesterday proved bonanza for the up-river resorts and both boats did a good business. At Mayflower Park Simmons Comedians gave a good performance, being assisted by Professor Peake and Huyke's orchestra, while at Crystal Springs park a string band furnished music.

Fifteen Days in Yellowstone Park.
The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company desires to call attention to a very completely arranged tour through the Wonderland of America, under the management of the well-known tourist manager, Mr. J. J. Grafton. The party will leave Chicago on Tuesday evening, July 21, by electric lighted train, with dining car, to be absent three weeks. The petrified forest and many other attractive features of the park will be included in the itinerary, that the traveler, going through the ordinary way, does not see. A party will also leave Chicago for Alaska via Yellowstone Park, the same date.

For full particulars, call on the agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway.

IMPORTANT WATER DECISION.

Level Established By a Dam Must Stand

After Twenty Years.

A decision by Judge Fish, of Racine, in what is known as the Beulah lake case, is of importance to dwellers along lakes and streams. The decision is in effect that a dam owner, having obtained by prescription growing out of more than twenty years' using, the right to flow the lands of the plaintiff, the height to which the waters were raised by the dam and at which they were maintained through this period of adverse use becomes the natural level of the water. The question has never before been decided in this form, and will probably be taken to the supreme court.

HOT WEATHER DYSPEPSIA.

Thousands Suffer From It at This Season of the Year.

Hot weather dyspepsia may be recognized by the following symptoms: Depression of spirits, heaviness and pain in the stomach after meals, loss of flesh and appetite, no desire for food, bad taste in the mouth, especially in the morning, wind in stomach and bowels, irritable disposition, nervous weakness, weariness, costiveness, headache, palpitation, heartburn. It is a mistake to treat such troubles with "tonics," "blood purifiers," "cathartics," "pills," because the whole trouble is in the stomach. It is indigestion or dyspepsia and nothing else.

All these symptoms rapidly disappear when the stomach is relieved, strengthened, and cleansed by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They should be taken after meals and a few carried in the pocket to be used whenever any pain or distress is felt in the stomach. They are prepared only for stomach troubles.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are endorsed by such physicians as Dr. Harlandson, Dr. Jennison, and Dr. Mayer, because they contain the natural digestive acids and fruit essences which when taken into the stomach cause the prompt digestion of the food before it has time to ferment and sour, which is the cause of the mischief.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are pleasant to take and unequalled for invalids, children and every person afflicted with imperfect digestion. It is safe to say they will cure any form of stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

Nearly all the druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, full sized packages at 50 cents. A book on stomach troubles and thousands of testimonials sent free by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

HER OWN LITTLE HOME.

What Herloom Tapestry and Ingenuity Do for a Third-Story Hall Room.

The bachelor girl no longer has a "boudoir." The room set apart and sacred to her use is called a "den." Unfortunately floor space in city houses is at a premium and the girl who can have even a hall bedroom to devote to this purpose is lucky.

A Brooklyn (N. Y.) girl with much ingenuity and taste has evolved a charming sanctuary within the four walls of the third story front hall room. The house is old-fashioned and consequently well built. The one window, with its wide window seat, has two feet of Moorish fretwork fitted in at the top, and beneath this from a brass pole hang curtains of silk and linen damask in deep blues and white. That they were found in a chest in the garret of the old family homestead at Guilford does not make them a whit less valuable. Along one side of the room, which is rather wider than that of the city house of to-day, is a couch covered with more heirloom tapestry and piled with pillows, some of blue denim, worked with heraldic designs in soft tones of Asiatic Roman floss, some in white tapestry worked in deep blues and one in soft old pinks, giving a needed touch of contrasting color. The couch is merely the wide, long box which holds her party dresses, the top so upholstered and hinged that it can be raised at will. The window seat is cushioned with old-blue corduroy: on its left stands a pretty writing desk in full-finished mahogany; in front of the window is a low rocker, and in the corner, at the head of the divan, a low tea table, with its china all in blue and white or old pink, and a wrought iron crane and a copper kettle. Opposite the divan is a long, low bookcase, its top adorned with a fancifully painted wooden Tyrolean beer mug, plaster casts and pretty china. A blue and white silk curtain is suspended from a brass rod in front. At the foot of the divan is a low Oriental stool, with a cushion of Algerian-striped silk. An Oriental rug covers the hardwood floor. The woodwork is enameled a pinkish ivory. A photograph of Bouguereau's "Cupid and Psyche" and another of "The Modern St. Cecilia" are framed in ivory enamel and gold, while numerous unframed etchings and water colors are pinned up against the blue-gray cartridge paper of the walls, which forms such an admirable background.

AN INNOCENT INTRUDER.

What Happened When a Certain New Yorker Engaged Rooms.

An amusing story is told of the early days of the Margaret Louise home, the New York World. The home, as is well known, was built by Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard as a woman's hotel under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian Association. The first day the building was open Miss Altman, the directress, was told that a gentleman had called to look at the rooms. Taking it for granted that he wished to engage board for some woman relative, she sent an attendant with him to show him the rooms. He expressed himself as much pleased and engaged a suite. At nightfall the following day Miss Altman was informed by the horrified attendant that "a man had come to occupy the rooms," which he claims to have engaged the preceding day. In the hall her startled eyes recognized the dignified gentleman of the day before, accompanied by a colored valet, with a dress suit case in one hand and a portmanteau in the other, and with an expressman with a big trunk bringing up the rear. Miss Altman advanced and politely requested an explanation. This caused the gentleman to grow very red in the face, while the valet rolled his eyes in disapproval and the expressman waited. The gentleman declared that he had come to take possession of the rooms he had engaged and had been refused the keys. "Oh, but you cannot occupy the rooms" she exclaimed. "This is a woman's hotel." The valet dropped the portmanteau, the expressman smiled, while beads of cold perspiration descended the would-be boarder's brow, as he explained that, "going by, he had seen the place, and mistaking it for a select hotel, was so much pleased with his inspection that he had persuaded his nephew to come also," and that "probably the young man would arrive by 8 o'clock." Then, with many apologies, he beat a hasty retreat. That evening Miss Altman received the nephew, who proved to be a dashing young society man, who, when he heard of his uncle's innocent mistake, was greatly amused and laughed heartily.

Management of Children.

The secret of the management of children is love; not that foolish love which sees in them no faults or overlooks those faults, but that tender, watchful love which corrects them, not in anger—no child should ever be punished—but in sorrow, which the child can see, and which will touch his heart.—Rev. Father Carne.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY.

1765—Stephen Hopkins, "signer" for Rhode Island, died in Providence; born 1707.

1793—Marat, the terrorist, was assassinated by Charlotte Corday. Marat was one of the most sanguinary of the Jacobins. A creature of no personal presence, he swayed the masses by his fiery passion. With Danton and Robespierre he planned the destruction of the Girondists and when cut down by the heroine was preparing a list of victims to be sacrificed to the common weal. His death however, only called for greater sacrifices.

1850—Rufus Choate, lawyer and orator, died at Halifax; born 1799.

1830—General John Charles Fremont, explorer, soldier and Republican presidential candidate in 1856, died in New York; born in Georgia, 1813.

1864—George R. Graham, founder of Graham's Magazine, died at Orange, N. J.

WHAT DEMOCRATS HAVE DONE.

All the hardships that contracted loans and doubly cautious investors can bring will be felt between now and November. Money centers are quick to feel the effect of the Chicago declaration. The most moderate view taken by financiers is that of Henry Clews, who says:

Undoubtedly, it is no small matter to see such a large mass of our people given over to the wildest conceptions and the most passionate resolves upon questions about which they have no rational conception and which most of them are unable to understand. But

I feel that this exaggerated excitement must have its reaction, and that it tends to swell the vote of the whig party who have no sympathy with the radical and communistic views. The Chicago convention has that the country to understand now espoused democratic party issues. That realism among its is the outcome; & only expected to be if not popular platform if nothing, order-loving & sober, intelligent what lies in now unending discontent and the prevalentism of the south unless seeing the fact that one of the party and election will be the open above the revolutionary tendencies, will tend to swell the overwhelming majority that, in November, will show these malcontent elements what their real standing among the American people.

The spirit of the Chicago convention is an affront to every conservative and patriotic sentiment in the heart of our people. It is the sort of temper out of which comes lawlessness, conspiracy and revolution. The classes whom the planks are intended to inflame know nothing of the real ends of their leaders. The more inflaming and revolutionary the party program is the better it suits the militant mood into which those unreflecting masses have been worked. There is no mistaking the real tactics of the party leaders. Conscious of the danger that their selfish scheme of making a home market for silver may be overwhelmingly voted down at the election, they marshal a host of side issues out of which they may excite popular discontent and awaken the mob spirit and frighten the orderly supporters of sound money into surrender. Their game is transparent and well understood and excites no concern among the classes against whom it is directed. They stand unmoved upon the foundation of common sense and common honesty which has never failed to shield the country from the shock of civil discontents. The more open the temptations or the threats of demagogic leaders, the more ready our people have ever been to come to the rescue; and the spirit and the dictation of the Chicago convention were just the incentives needed to rally the friends of American principles and institutions for overwhelming defense. Hence the public readily perceive that the democratic convention has made certain the election of the party of sound money and honest finance in November. In this sense, the political situation is both clearer and safer today than it was a week ago and confidence is more solid.

THE TREASURY CASES.

The fact that Senator Sawyer has disposed of the treasury cases once and for all, must disturb some of the pint-up politicians around the state. They never could understand that political power might be used for other than personal ends. They were satisfied that Senator Sawyer, some dark night, would gather the legislature about him in Madison and turn the treasury vaults inside out.

Senator Sawyer's action does away with this fearful possibility. He has paid to Harshaw and Guenther and their bondsmen all moneys collected from them, and taken legal releases, so that all the claims, if any exist in the state, are vested in him. He will file these releases with the governor and also a letter in which he will declare that neither he nor any one of his heirs, or anybody on his behalf, shall ever make any claim for, or receive a dollar from the state in connection with the treasury cases. He will memorialize the legislature never to entertain any claim of any nature whatsoever, growing out of the treasury suits. He will ask that the releases which he files and his agreement be transmitted by the governor to the next legislature and spread upon the records of the state.

This closes the treasury controversy. The people can now feel secure that this matter is forever settled, and democratic politicians can no longer frighten the voters with ghosts of the treasury cases. The papers will be filed soon and published so that everybody can see how satisfactory the matter has been adjusted.

Janesville friends of Ira B. Bradford have been assured that Mr. Bradford will have good support from the northern part of the state. The fact that he was born in Rock county, has made his prospects a matter of lively interest here, and has brought forth many kindly expressions.

Aldermen are by the ears again over the placing of new electric lights. Wait until Alderman McKey's ordinance passes compelling all wheelmen to carry a lantern. The city will be so light that electricity and gas will be needless luxuries.

The kind of a crisis that makes bolters of democrats like Senator W. F. Vilas, General E. E. Bryant, Burr W. Jones and R. M. Bashford, will make democrats who are business men first and politicians afterward into true blue republicans.

The number of old-time Janesville democrats lining up for McKinley hints that in this part of the state at least people expect to pay their debts in full.

SKETCH OF W. J. BRYAN.

Presidential Nominee Was Born on an Illinois Farm Near Salem.

William Jennings Bryan was born in Salem, Marion county, Ill., March 19, 1860. His father was Silas L. Bryan, a farmer-laborer, who lived in the outskirts of the village. The elder Bryan's ability and integrity were recognized in his community, and for twelve years he was on the circuit court bench and for eight years was in the senate. It was on this Illinois farm where W. J. Bryan passed his boyhood. At the age of 15 years he entered Whipple academy at Jacksonville, and two years later he entered the freshman class of Illinois college. He took a classical course, and in 1881 was graduated with high honors. Quitting school at Jacksonville young Bryan entered the Union College of Law in Chicago, in his spare hours being connected with the law office of the late Lyman Trumbull. Between these two men a warm friendship existed. In 1883 Bryan was graduated from the school and opened a law office in Jacksonville.

In 1887 Mr. Bryan removed to Lincoln, Neb., where he took up his practice with marked success. In May, 1888, he appeared for the first time in Nebraska politics. He was a delegate to the state convention at Omaha, and during a lull in convention proceedings he was called upon for a speech. In that one speech, devoted exclusively to the tariff, his reputation as political orator was made. In 1890, when the young democracy of the state cast about for a young leader, Bryan was called upon. Then followed an old-fashioned campaign. Bryan was listed for at least one speech in every important place in the district, composed of nine counties, and having a total vote of 72,583.

He defeated Connell by 6,713 majority, when Connell had carried the district by 3,407 majority only two years before.

In the LIIId congress Bryan was the youngest member of that body. He was outspoken in his opposition to class legislation; was an advocate of local self government and fought the federal election bill. He fought the McKinley bill, and on all occasions stood against bounties and subsidies. He was re-elected to the LIID congress.

Mr. Bryan is of striking figure and presence. He is about 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighs about 180 pounds and has dark hair and eyes. He is of Irish extraction, but for more than 30 years his ancestors have been American citizens.

In 1884 Mr. Bryan was married to Miss Mary E. Baird, the only daughter of a prosperous merchant of Perry, Ill. The children of the marriage are a daughter, Ruth, and a son, William J. Jr.

ALL KINDS OF YELLS BUT NO LIFE LOST

POLICE CALLED OUT BY CRIES OF MURDER.

Down on Holmes Street They Found a Wild West Show in Progress, While North of Town Arthur Coates Had His Head Pounded Severely.

There was no murder on Holmes street Saturday night, but there was yelling enough for an Armenian massacre.

The police were called at 9:30 and got down in the Fourth ward just in time to see a family ruction at its best.

On the arrival of Chief Acheson most of the disputants made their escape. The people who stayed said the trouble was caused by a young man playing Wild West with a revolver and threatening to put an end to the world. David Dougherty was the only one arrested and this morning was given four days in jail.

Farmer's Wife Feared Murder

Two Jamesville men rowed up the river yesterday afternoon, with a keg of beer, absorbed the beer and then walked to the farm of Arthur Coates, and pounded Coates until he yielded.

Mrs. Coates drove a foam-covered horse to town on a dead gallop about 6:30 in the evening, and hunted up the police.

"Two men are killing my husband," she cried. "He isn't a fighting man, and is being butchered."

Officer Brown jumped into her buckboard, and was taken to the Coates farm faster than he has traveled in a long time. The fight was over when he arrived, but arrests will follow as soon as the visitors can be identified.

JUDGE BENNETT TAKEN ILL

He Fell on His Face While Suffering From a Bittous Attack.

Judge John R. Bennett was taken suddenly ill yesterday forenoon at his Milton avenue home with an attack resembling vertigo, and before help could arrive he toppled over falling on his face. The noise caused by his fall attracted help and Dr. J. B. Whiting was summoned. He pronounced the illness a bilious trouble but said that it was nothing serious. Today Judge Bennett was much stronger. He will not come to the court house for a few days but will transact business at his home.

COMPANY A IS HOME AGAIN.

Boys Had Plenty of Hard Work Spiced with Enjoyment.

The Light Infantry boys broke camp yesterday, and the advance guard arrived home this morning—Charles Gage, Dr. James Gibson, Bert Nott, Herman Zander, Albert Knapp and Joseph Mahaney. They reported an enjoyable week, but agreed that the work was a trifle harder this year than ever before. The company proper is expected home late this afternoon.

PARTY UP THE RIVER TONIGHT

Entertainment in Honor of the Misses Rusk of Chippewa Falls

Thirty couple will indulge in a dancing party to be given up the river this evening at Mayflower park. The affair is in honor of the Misses Rusk of Chippewa Falls, who are visiting friends in the city. The boat will leave at 7:30 and return at midnight.

Unrived Shirt Waist Fall.

On page eight of this evening's issue our large ad speaks of a sale of shirt waists that has not seen its equal in some time. COUNCIL AT ODDS OVER NEW LIGHTS

FIRST WARD PEOPLE COMPLAIN OF DARKNESS.

Aldermen Are in Doubt Whether Additional Money Should Be Spent on Illumination—Each Ward Would Demand a Share of the Increase—No Meeting Tonight.

There is not likely to be a meeting of the common council tonight. Some of the aldermen are to be cut of town, others are willing to wait for cooler weather, and the meeting will be adjourned for lack of a quorum.

There was a meeting of the lighting committee of the council this morning.

It resulted in considerable pulling and hauling.

In the First ward a number of additional lights are demanded.

Some of the other aldermen hesitate to increase the amount of the lighting appropriation. If new lights are placed in the First ward, they argue, the other wards will require an equal number, and the bill will grow rapidly.

Several long stretches of street in the First ward are pointed out as in need of lights, however, and the question will be discussed again.

Aside from the matter of lights there was no business scheduled for the council meeting this evening except the approving of assessment rolls. They are in Treasurer Father's hands ready for transmission to the council.

STARS BEAT HOLMES' HUSTLERS

Game On Snipe Hill Results In Victory By a Score of 15 to 11.

The Janesville Stars beat the Holmes' Hustlers 15 to 11 on Snipe Hill and kept Umpire D. Croft busy. A double play by the Hustlers won much applause, and the game was played well throughout. The Stars are now monarchs of all they survey, and nothing on Snipe Hill is too good for the boys who defeated the once unconquerable Holmes Hustlers. The line-up of the two clubs was as follows:

SOME CRISP PERSONAL COMMENT

DEAN E. M. McGINNIS is in Milwaukee.

LATE FATHER BROOKS

A SCHOLARLY PRIEST AND A LOVABLE MAN.

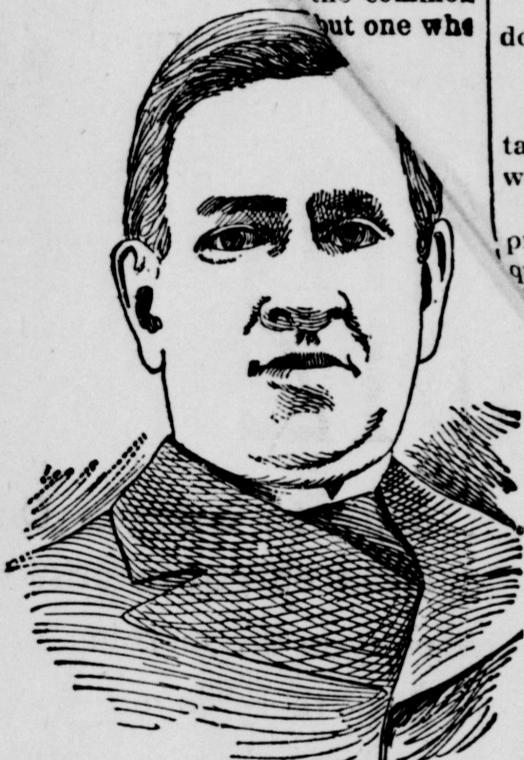

Story of His Life as Told by the Things Said and Done by the Liver—He was Known Throughout Two Continents—Beyhood in Boston.

(Reproduced from Harper's Weekly, by permission. Copyright, 1895, by Harper & Brothers.)

THE late Arthur Brooks had been long known as one of the most scholarly and effective pulpit orators of America, and one of the most successful priests of the Episcopal Church. He had been a rector at Williamsport, Pennsylvania, at Chicago, and for twenty years he was the rector of the Church of the Incarnation in New York city. He was known not only in the cities where he administered his priestly office, and in Boston and Cambridge, where he was born and educated, but throughout the ecclesiastical world and on both sides of the ocean.

Doctor Brooks was born in Rowe street, Boston, July 12, 1845. He was the son of William G. and Mary Ann Phillips Brooks. After being graduated at the Boston Latin School in 1863, he entered Harvard College, and was graduated in the class of 1867. After this he studied for a year at Andover Theological Seminary. Then he went to the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Philadelphia, being graduated in 1870. In the same year he was ordained a deacon at old Trinity, Summer street, Boston, of which his brother, Phillips Brooks, was then the rector. He was presented by another brother, Frederick Brooks. He at once took charge of Trinity Church, Williamsport, Pa., and was there, in October, 1870, ordained as priest. It was there also that he married Miss Elizabeth W. Willard. After three years' service in Williamsport, he was called to St. James' Church, Chicago, under circumstances of peculiar difficulty. The city had been swept by its great fire, and upon Dr. Brooks fell the labor of rebuilding the church. After this work had been successfully accomplished, in 1875, he was called to succeed the Rev.

W. E. Montgomery, D. D., in the ship of the Church of the Incarnation in New York city. He found them perplexed by debts, but it of Artig before they were paid him for elements in the character undertaken, tasks that peculiarly fitted the large which he had undertaken. The parish which brought to the first place, that relieved him not a popular preacher, acceptance of that great preacher, the common people, but one who

THE LATE ARTHUR BROOKS.
Appealed to strong and trained minds. The men of his own and other learned professions loved to listen to him. They admired his ripe scholarship and his remarkable powers of analysis and synthesis. As a friend remarked of him, "He tore apart and put together with a skill that I have never known equaled." His preaching power had apparently not reached its full development when he died, for during the last year it was more effective and apparent than it had ever been before.

As the head of a parish, Doctor Brooks displayed great administrative ability and wonderful care and talent for detail. Scholarly tastes, oratorical power and business capacity have seldom been combined as they were in Doctor Brooks, and the condition in which he left his own and his church's affairs bears testimony to a painstaking skill that would do credit to a trained man of business.

He was an old-fashioned churchman. More perhaps than at any other church in New York, the Episcopal service was read and sung at the Church of the Incarnation after a fashion that was distinct from modern ecclesiasticism. It was conducted as Doctor Brooks himself saw and heard it in his boyhood in old St. Paul's in Boston, and as many of the elders of his congregation remember its ministration in the days when St. George's was in Beekman street, and when a noble simplicity reigned.

The old story of Prometheus is a parable. Prometheus was on terms of intimacy with the gods. From them he stole fire, and gave it to men. For this sin he was bound to the rocks of Mount Caucasus, and vultures were set upon him. They only ate his liver. This grew again as fast as it was pecked away. Are his sufferings to be imagined?

Take a modern interpretation of the parable. There is no cooking without fire. In cooking and eating the mischief lies. The stomach is overtasked, the bowels become clogged they cannot dispose of the food that is given them. The impurities back up on the liver. Then come the vultures—the torments of a diseased liver.

HE FOUGHT INDIANS.

"Did I ever tell you the story of how Buffalo Bill saved my life and the lives of my companions back in 1869?" asked Sergeant Jim McDonnell in the central police station one day last week.

It was raining outside like a cloud-burst, and consequently there was a goodly crowd of listeners when Sergeant Jim asked the opening query. Contrary to his usual custom Jim remained standing while telling the story, but he did not begin until every one present had several times expressed a desire to hear his experience. After puffing industriously on his cigar for a few moments, during which time his memory began to react, he began:

"It was back in the fall of 1869 when I was a corporal in the Fifth United States cavalry stationed out in Wyoming territory. The Indians were on the war-path and were giving the government no end of trouble, and it was safe only where large squads of armed men were at call. Skirmishes with the wandering bands of Sioux and Cheyennes were frequent, and we had smelt powder a dozen times at the period of which I am telling.

"One day Colonel Crittenton, our commander, received orders to make a foray down around the Republican river in Colorado, and I was picked out as one of the squad of 20 troopers who were to go as the advance guard with the sappers and miners. Attached to our command as scouts were Buffalo Bill, otherwise Colonel Cody, and Major Frank North, another famous Indian scout, who still sticks to the old calling and localities. Bill and North were sent out with our squad as scouts, and they did sterling service, too, and but for Buffalo Bill's thoughtfulness and knowledge of the red man's methods I might have been six feet under the sod instead of telling this story today.

"A lieutenant was in command of the squad, a young fellow, fresh from West Point, who knew less about Indian fighting than he did about bicycle riding, and there were no bicycles at that time. His name was Valkman, but for all his lack of experience he was a bright fellow, with plenty of grit and well liked. There was a sergeant, and I was the corporal.

"We started with the sun one morning, and everything went easy until we began to reach that part of the country where we knew the Sioux and Cheyennes were. Then we became cautious. Buffalo Bill and Major North rode away at daylight on the scout, and we saw them no more until the hour of danger had arrived. It was the next day about sundown. We were just approaching a stream and loafing along as only old cavalrymen can. The object was to go into camp at the stream where we could get fresh water for our horses and for cooking. Before we reached the water, which was a glad sight to the almost parched horses, some of the men spied some moving objects way off in the deep hollow of the wavy hills. It was first believed that the objects were buffalo running, but some one called attention to the fact that the objects were moving too fast for buffalo, and it was suggested that they were antelope.

"While we were looking and speculating, straining our eyes to discern the objects, a pair of rapidly riding horsemen, over a mile off, suddenly came into view from the mound of a gently sloping hill, and after getting fairly into view began riding in circles at a furious gallop. Then we knew that the moving objects that we had been studying were Indians. The two horsemen were Buffalo Bill and Major North, and the signal directed by riding in a circle is only too well known to any one who has spent any part of his life on the plains. By this time we could make out the objects, as the sun beat down on them. They were redskins sure enough, and at least 50 of them, while our command numbered less than 25. They were coming at a furious gait, and each one was bending under his pony to keep out of sight as much as possible.

"'Ready,' ordered the lieutenant. 'March, trot,' and then 'March, gallop,' and we were off in the direction of the two scouts, who had ridden to the top of the hill again and were watching the reds. When we arrived near enough, Cody told us that he and his partner had been watching the Indians all day and keeping them in sight, while they remained under cover. After consultation between the leaders, it was decided to let every man go it for himself and give the Indians all they bargained for. This meant that every man was to get his arms in shape and then go at them for all he was worth, and never stop fighting until the reds were licked or had run away. Arms rattled as the men adjusted them and knives were jerked to the front of the belts and with a determined look on every man's face the command to trot was received.

"The streams in front of us, that divided us from the redskins, was fordable at several points, wherever we could find a buffalo path. I struck out for myself at once and soon found myself separated from the others, who were scattering. In front of me was a beaten ford, and I made for it. I was the only one of the party to cross this particular ford, and I didn't wait to allow my thirsty animal to drink, but hurried him over and almost before I knew it was on the land again and going along at a gallop. Under ordinary circumstances, when my horse was not tired out, he was as sure footed as a cat, but just then he was very uncertain and I felt a little lump rise in my throat as I saw directly in front of me, less than a mile off, a little bunch of braves coming for me. I never halted, but pushed along until the reds began to circle about. By this time firing was going on about me, and in another second four of the Indians in front of me left the circle and without firing a shot came directly at me, their ponies on a dead run.

"I have never felt just that way before or since. I can't describe my feelings for a minute, but there was no time to hesitate, and I slowed up and finally dropped to the ground, with my carbine unslung. The Indians did not offer to open fire, so I dropped on one knee, and when they were near enough I opened fire and shot as careful as I might. My first shot took effect, and I knew I had made a hit when one of the braves let out a yell. I had not fired more than the third shot, when the reds turned and made off again and joined a larger force which was coming up from the west.

"I reloaded, mounted, and took after them again. They were running freely in front of us, and, as their ponies were fresh, they had little trouble in keeping out of the reach of our shots. Our men were pretty well scattered, but finally to the east I saw a little knot appear on the brow of a slope, and among them was Cody. They galloped down after the reds, and the direction taken by them soon brought me in their midst. Then it became a steady trot. The reds loafed and did not seem particularly anxious to get away or to stop and give battle. This seemed to bother Buffalo Bill considerably, and after we had been on the chase for over an hour he called a halt. He had tumbled to the little game planned by the Indians. He explained that by their manner he knew they were leading us into a trap, and that it was more than likely that some distance on, hidden from view, there was a big village encamped, and if we kept on we were liable to find ourselves in a trap, and no one in the party would live to tell the tale. I don't exactly know whether Bill was right or wrong. He was not riding his own horse at the time, and had tried to exchange the animal he had for one of ours, but no one would change, and I kind of thought he was fearful of risking a fight on the horse he rode, because he would stand no chance in getting away in case it was necessary to retreat. Subsequent developments demonstrated that he was right when he said we were being led into a trap, and it was lucky for us that we followed his advice.

"We abandoned the chase and rode back to the stream, which we reached by nightfall. Here we found the entire command encamped. Colonel Crittenton had come up with the main body of troopers, but instead of sending out a detachment to aid us he had quietly gone into camp and sat down and waited for us to return or to receive word that we had gone to that land from which there is no return.

"The next day we moved on to the point where we had turned back, and less than a mile farther found the remains of a big Indian camp containing no less than 500 braves. The camp was hidden in a canyon, and the fires were still warm, and it is certain that we would have met our fate the day before for the timely advice of Buffalo Bill Cody."—Detroit News-Tribune.

Dr. W. O. Terry of Sacramento, who has visited Naples, says: "Naples is one of the toughest places in Christendom. It is a rare thing in that town to meet with any one who seems to recognize the bath as an institution of civilization. Men, women and children revel in dirt, particularly the latter. Boys and girls of ten years are often seen in public without a single garment to hide their nudity. The ordinary refreshments of life, as practiced in America, are unknown there. The public conveyances are crowded with passengers so repulsive that it is often preferable to get out and walk. Doubtless everybody eats garlic in order to keep from being overcome with its odoriferous scent, as a matter of protection."

"But worst of all Italy are the terrible drain of taxation and the corruption on the part of men in high official position. The railroads, for instance, which ought to bring in large revenues to the government, are a source of expense. The explanation is that everybody connected with their operation is engaged in stealing. The charge is made openly, and I never once heard it disputed."—Washington Post.

The Japanese "Tadaima."

My own experience of Japanese railways certainly did not give the idea that they were a businesslike people. A few regiments of guards, returning in triumph from Formosa last November, upset the whole service on the Tokaido, the main line in Japan, for a week, and the general management, even in normal times, would bring discredit on, say, the Southeastern at its worst.

In their general mode of life, too, I cannot say that I observed any qualities which I should describe as businesslike—if you want a thing done in a hurry, they answer "tadaima," "all in a good time," which means any time between now and the new year. When sightseeing—e.g., visiting a factory—after having seen one thing a pause invariably follows, during which one is entertained to a smoke and a cup of tea, which, though hospitable and pleasant, does not conduce to getting through the sightseeing that day.—National Review.

Honeymoons a Specialty.
Prospective Traveler—I suppose your road has first-class accommodations? I don't mind telling you this is to be my wedding trip, and that is why I am so particular.

Ticket Agent—Bless you, young man, our road was built expressly for wedding trips. We have a tunnel every couple of miles.—N. Y. World.

External Vigilance.

Mrs. Prentice—How do you always manage to have such delicious beef?

Mrs. Blinthyre—I select a good, honest butcher, and then stand by him.

Mrs. Prentice—You mean that you give him all your trade?

Mrs. Blinthyre—No; I mean that I stand by him while he is cutting the meat.—Tit-Bits.

His Marriage a Failure.

Desperate Husband—Do you mean to say you would object to a divorce from such a woman as I have described?

Good Priest—I would. In our church marriage can be dissolved by death only.

"Very well. Please direct me to the nearest gunshop."—N. Y. Weekly.

Pity the Dog.

Fenderson—Did you hear about Snideley? He was bitten by a dog day before yesterday, and they say mortification has set in.

Fogg—I don't wonder that the animal feels mortified, but he ought to have thought before he bit Snideley.—Boston Transcript.

Uncle Allen's Opinion.

"Before they build any more skyscrapers in this town," observed Uncle Allen Sparks, picking his way gingerly across the muddy street, "my opinion is that they ought to pay a little more attention to scraping the earth."—Chicago Tribune.

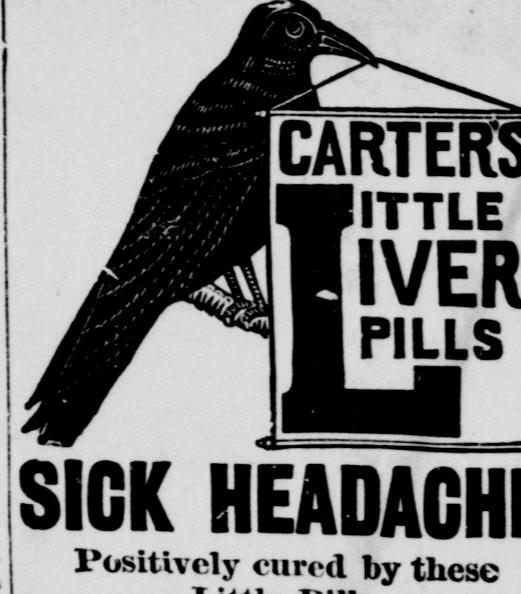

A Sacred Thought.

"Oh had I the wings of a dove!" sang she, And I thought (and I guess it was pat) If she gets them on next Sunday morning we'll see

The two of them pinned on her hat.

—L. A. W. Bulletin.

No 16 East Milwaukee Street,
Janesville, Wis.

: THEY WILL BE HERE :

At Grand Hotel, Janesville, one day only,

THURSDAY, JULY 16.

Returning Every Four Weeks.

413 Grand Avenue, Milwaukee.

All persons suffering from Catarrh and its complications will be treated for $1.00 per month until cured, if they apply to these eminent physicians on July 16. Let there be no misunderstanding—$1.00 per month pays your doctor bill and medicines.

EXAMINATION FREE TO ALL.

All chronic sufferers are invited to call and be examined free of charge. If your case is found to be incurable, the doctors will tell you so quickly and frankly, and will positively refuse to treat incurable cases. During two years' successful practice in Milwaukee, they have earned an enviable reputation for honest, straightforward methods and fair dealings with all. Their charge for treatment is so reasonable that even the poorest persons can take advantage of their supreme skill. Call early. Rooms always crowded.

ALL DISEASES AND DEFORMITIES CURED.
